CHAMPION CAKE AND PIE BAKER TO BE CHOSEN

VALUABLE CASH AND MERCHANDISE TO WINNERS.

City Federation To Get Proceeds From the Sale of Entries Friday.

The Grand Champion Cake Baker and the Grand Champion Pie Baker of Canyon and vicinity will be named tomorrow afternoon at the final session of the Canyon News' first annual cooking school.

Besides the title, the first award also carries a cash consideration of $10 for the best cake and $5 for the best pie.

Other prizes for cakes are, second, $5, third 48 pounds Great West flour, fourth, 24 pounds of Great West flour, and fifth, 12 pounds of Great West flour.

Second place in the pie baking contest will receive 48 pounds of Great West flour, third place 24 pounds of Great West flour, and fourth place 12 pounds of Great West flour.

Members of the City Federation of Women's Clubs report an active interest in the contest. All the proceeds derived from the auction of the prize winners, and the sale of all other cakes will be given to the organization, and will be used in Community Chest work.

Prize cakes will be on sale immediately following the end of the school.

Only one restriction has been placed upon the entries. They must be made with Great West flour. Any number of cakes and pies may be entered by one person.

Entries will be received at the Cooking School from 9 until 11 o'clock Friday morning.

Three competent judges will select the winners upon the following basis. Cakes, appearance 5 points, texture 10 points, flavor 10 points, quality of icing 5 points. Pies: texture 10 points, flavor of crust 10 points, quality and flavor of filler 10 points.

Taxpayers League Meets Tonight to Finish Organization

The Randall County Taxpayers League will meet tonight at the court house at 8:00 o'clock for the purpose of completing its organization. J. W. McCrerey was recently appointed temporary chairman and Clarence Reeds was named temporary secretary for the purpose of organization.

All members of the executive committee and of the advisory committee are urged to be present tonight in order that complete arrangements for future work may be completed. All members of the League are asked to be present and join in the discussion relative to the organization.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson and daughter, spent the week end with relatives in Lubbock.

Henry S. Bishop Out For Congress

At 11:45 Monday night Henry S. Bishop, judge of the 47th judicial district, filed his name as a candidate for congress of the 18th district, to oppose Marvin Jones. The application for a place on the ticket was filed with Harwood Beville, chairman of the district, only 15 minutes before the final closing time for applications for the primary election. Announcement was not made until yesterday afternoon that Judge Bishop had entered this race, and surprise was expressed by friends at the sudden move on the part of Judge Bishop. Alfred M. Smith, county chairman

Canyon Merchants Are Generous With Daily Gifts

Canyon merchants are being exceedingly generous with their daily prizes at the Canyon News' First Annual Cooking School in session this week at the American Legion Hall under the direction of Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig, nationally known cook.

Hosts of useful articles in clothing, kitchen and china ware as well as canned goods, fresh vegetables and other grocery items are being given away daily to numbers of Canyon and Randall County women. All that is required in order to be in line for a prize is that each woman register on her arrival at the school each afternoon. It is requested that these registrations be made promptly at the opening of the school at 2 o'clock as the boxes are being closed at 2:15.

Canyon merchants who are daily giving away valuable articles in order to better acquaint local women with the quality of their products are: Buffalo Meat Market, Canyon Flower Shop, Thompson Hardware Company, Terry Beauty Salon, McCarty Bros. Inc., Bellah's Food Store, and the Warwick Printing Company.

Tickets To Be On Sale For Museum Show

Tickets for the Museum Fund Minstrel, being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, which will have "a laugh a minute" will go on sale probably today or tomorrow, was the statement made this morning by Fred E. Wortham, secretary.

Irby Carruth, superintendent of the local high school will be in charge of the ticket sales, and will announce his committee within the next day or two.

The "Dollar Show," with "Repression Prices," will be presented in the college auditorium on the evening of Friday, June 17, at 8:30 o'clock. Proceeds from the show will go toward boosting the funds for the erection of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Reserve seat tickets will be offered at 50 cents while general admission tickets will go on sale at 35 cents. The three sections of the auditorium in front of the balcony on the main floor will be reserved; all others will be general admission seats.

Good progress is being reported by those handling the cast or the minstrel. J. B. Fowler, assisted by C. W. Batchelder and R. A. Terrill are in charge of the eight end men, while Prof. C. E. Strain is directing the musical portion of the minstrel.

A. C. Donnell returned yesterday from Abilene where he was a witness before the grand jury.

Introduction of Candidates Take Place at School

Candidates who are participating in the sponsor of the News' Annual Cooking School were introduced this afternoon at the opening of the session of the school.

The candidates were on hand at 1:30 and spent half an hour in meeting the women who attended the school. At 3:45 o'clock, Clyde W. Warwick, introduced all of the candidates who had assisted with the School. Without the assistance of the candidates the School could not have been the success that it is proving to be.

Those candidates who were introduced were:

J. D. Barker, candidate for County Attorney.
R. N. (Bob) Barnett, candidate for Sheriff and Tax Collector.
A. L. Biggs, candidate for County Judge.
A. C. Donnell, candidate for Sheriff and Tax Collector.
F. V. Friemel, candidate for County Commissioner, Precinct No. 2.
J. B. Fox, candidate for County Commissioner, Precinct No. 3.
M. W. Hess, candidate for County Commissioner, Precinct No. 2.
P. Frank Hicks, candidate for Sheriff and Tax Collector.
S. B. McClure, candidate for Sheriff and Tax Collector.
A. B. Martin, candidate for Associate Justice, Court of Civil Appeals.

Mrs. Berl Edwards Mayfield, candidate for County and District Clerk.

P. J. Meyers, candidate for County Commissioner, Precinct No. 1.

Clint C. Small, candidate for Senator, 31st district.

Andy Walsh, candidate for County and District Clerk.

Clyde W. Warwick, candidate for State Representative, 123rd district.

P. T. A. to Give Money to Museum Historical Society

A donation of about $25 will be given by the Parent-Teachers Society of Canyon toward the building fund of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society. The money in the treasury will all be donated to this fund.

Mrs. L. A. Donnell, president of the P. T. A., started the movement to make the donation. Mrs. Mack Stewart is treasurer of the Society. The P. T. A. was not active the past year, and the officers decided that the money remaining in the treasury would best be invested in the museum. All members of the P. T. A. who have been interviewed have heartily approved the donation.

MRS. IHRIG'S RECIPES

The Canyon News here prints the recipes for the dishes prepared by Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig at the cooking school Wednesday afternoon.

"I want to impress upon Canyon cooks the importance of using quality ingredients. There is no substitute for quality. One can not expect to use the following recipes with complete success if substitutes of inferior quality are used," Mrs. Ihrig said following the discussion Wednesday.

"I can promise every cook who follows the recipes, complete success if she will use Great West flour, K. C. Baking Powder, quality fruits and vegetables obtainable at Bellah's Food Store, and tender meats from the Buffalo market. Of course perfect cooking is assured by an L. & H. Range is most important, and for cold foods, no refrigerator freezes with the evenness of a General Electric.

McSpadden Entertains at Barbecue Yesterday

Over 300 people from all sections of the Panhandle were present for the first annual field day and barbecue held Wednesday on the Tierra Blanca Hog Farm just east of town. The McSpadden Brothers, owners of the Tierra Blanca Farms were hosts for the day.

Visitors to the farms spent the morning on trips of inspection of the hog and dairy farms.

At noon a barbecue prepared by John Snider, nationally known barbecue king, was served along the banks of the McSpadden lake.

Following the barbecue a few short talks were heard and a number of prominent men present were introduced.

T. C. Thompson, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, gave a word of welcome to visitors in coming to Randall county. He mentioned the fact that this is an outstanding county along live-

Summer Quarter Work is Started

815 students had completed their enrollments and paid their fees at the College at twelve o'clock today, according to Business Manager Travis Shaw.

In every way the outlook for the summer session is very fine. Dr. H. M. Cook, Dean of Men, reported Wednesday afternoon that 170 men had already enrolled.

President J. A. Hill remarked upon the general maturity and apparent seriousness of purpose of the students as he has seen them in the corridors.

In the Graduate school the enrollment is entirely satisfactory, according to Dr. R. P. Jarrett, chairman of the graduate committee. There will be as many or more graduate students than last year in the opinion of Dr. Jarrett.

Some Very Large Classes
Yesterday when classes were met for the first time, it was found that there were some very large classes. Classes in English, government and education had more than eighty members. Adjustments will be made in cases like these.

The grades of the training school are all filled about to capacity.

Mrs. J. J. Douglas and son spent the week end in Electra visiting relatives.

Contest Money To Be Used By Community Chest

The money derived from the sale of the entries in the Cake and Pie Baking Contest sponsored by the City Federation of Women's Clubs in connection with the Canyon News' First Annual Cooking School will be used in the Community Chest work of the City Federation, according to an announcement made by Mrs. J. Madison Daugherty, president. Prize winning cakes and pies will be sold at auction at the school Friday, and the others will be placed in Bellah Food Store for sale Friday and Saturday.

The City Federation are sponsors of the Community Chest organization which during the past year did a great work in helping to alleviate suffering among the needy of the city.

More than 1,500 garments were distributed the past winter by the members of the Federation. Food was also donated in large quantities and the Federation investigated cases in the city, seeing that the donations went to deserving people and where they were needed the most.

At Christmas time the Community Chest carries on the Empty Stocking Crusade to provide toys for needy children. This movement the past winter put toys, candy and oranges in many homes that otherwise would have been missed by Santa Claus.

802 Scholastics in Canyon Found When Census Completed

Canyon lost 35 pupils in the scholastic census which has been completed by J. W. Shanklin, secretary of the Canyon Independent School district. The total census for the year numbered 802 as compared with 837 for last year.

The county census will show an increase over last year, which indicates that more people are living on the farms of the county than in the past.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Sanders are leaving this week for Galesburg, Illinois to visit Mr. Sanders' sister.

Men Invited to School on Friday

Friday afternoon at 3:45 the prize winning cakes and pies of the Baking Contest will be sold at the close of the Cooking School.

Men of the community are urged to come to the final session of the Cooking School and be present when the cakes and pies are sold.

All of the money taken in at the auction goes to the work of the City Federation of Women's clubs.

At these auctions in other cities, bidding is brisk for the prize winning cakes and pies, as it is known that every cent will be used in some worthy cause for local community work.

Women who attend the Cooking School tomorrow will be prepared to bid on the cakes and pies offered for sale.

The final session of the Canyon News' annual cooking school will be held Friday afternoon in the American Legion Hall.

Announcement of the winners of the cake and pie baking contest sponsored by the City Federation of Women's Clubs will be made at the close of the school. Prizes totaling $20 in cash and 168 pounds of Great West flour have been offered by the Great West Mills, of Amarillo.

More than 150 entries are expected in the contest, according to Mrs. J. Madison Daugherty, president of the City Federation. Proceeds from the sale of the cakes and pies will be given to the City Federation.

Many other valuable attendance prizes will be given. Canyon merchants and national advertisers have been unusually generous with their gifts this year.

No set program has been arranged for Mrs. Ihrig's lecture and demonstration Friday. She will prepare those dishes requested by members of the audience, and also will answer all questions.

In addition, she will discuss "A Safe Reducing Diet," noting the dangers of improper reducing, and the scientific methods of ridding one's self of excess poundage.

In her discussion today, the director supplied the answers to the eternal question, "What Shall We Have for Dinner?" Balanced menus were outlined, and a schedule given by which every cook may easily learn to include in her meals the necessary foods in their proper relative amounts.

"Balancing a meal becomes a habit after a little practice," she said. "One does this instinctively after one becomes conscious of the simplicity with which it can be managed."

The following outline indicates the constituents which every meal should possess:

1. Protein—meats and other protein rich food such as beans, eggs, fish and nuts.
2. Fats.
3. Fruits and vegetables.
4. Cereals and other starches.
5. Sweet.

The most important health protectors are milk, butter and leafy green vegetables.

One should avoid the repetition of the same flavor in one meal. Contrast is desired; follow a bland course with a highly seasoned one. Take care that flavor, color and texture are not repeated in the meal.

"Balance will aid in making the meal attractive and appetizing almost as much as a good cook," Mrs. Ihrig said.

THE TREND TOWARD LIQUOR.

The factor which will keep the United States constitutionally dry and ultimately make it politically dry is the cumbersome method of amending the Constitution. That method was deliberately chosen to make it hard and it is clear now that it will not be made easier. This rigid method of amendment alone will not defeat the return of liquor to legalized sale, but it does throw the necessity on the wets of a protracted campaign; the longer their fight the more they are prompted to excesses and trapped into mistakes.

The revulsion against the current trend toward liquor is overdone. Society has made a fad of cocktails; newspapers make a joke of them; theaterdom is still obsessed with bedroom-bathroom-speakeasy notions. All this makes a show and an impression, but it is being overdone. Society is empty and rotten for lowering the standard of womanhood; journalism is pretty low down when you feel the need of cloths to conceal the "bouquet" of soppy editorials and "spiked" news accounts; the screen and stage get more Los Angelesian and New Yorkese only to their financial loss. Cleanliness and sobriety are not drummed up but they are too genuine and too permanent in their values to be drummed down. They will survive and will triumph in their own good time.

Congress votes down 4 percent beer; the Parent-Teachers Association is for strong and stern enforcement of prohibition; women voters maintain an ominous silence in the presence of the tomboys of hip-pocket politicians. Be not deceived; black is not white, thirst is not conscience, legalizing liquor does not make it law-abiding; nor can liquor-befuddled brains puzzle out the way to prosperity.—The Dallas News.

THIS WOULD END WAR.

A university head has made the revolutionary proposition that governments in the future protect youth by drafting men past 50 for combatant troops in time of war. In theory there is much to be said for the proposal. The idea of making cannon fodder of young men, upon whom the future of nations depends, is not altogether sensible, particularly when it is remembered that wars are always started by men over 50 years of age. Is not young blood more essential to national progress?

There would be no more wars if the nations of the world would enter into a pact making men under 50 exempt from military service. There will never be such a pact, because all pacts, including those sending millions of young men to horrible deaths, are made by men over 50. But if such a pact were possible, the men over 50 would quickly declare permanent world peace. Persons who must fight their own battles prefer to talk peace.

Of course the proposal could not be put to practical use. Youth is better able to stand up under the rigors of war; it can fight better and it succumbs less readily to disease and fatigue. In time of war nations and their old men depend upon youth. While youth fights, suffers and dies, the men past 50 are claiming the honors and profiteering.

LOOK OUT FOR THE TWISTER.

The "twister" is a common menace to the life insurance policyholder. He attempts to make his "prospect" discontinue a policy he already has in order to take one in another company. His weapons are half-truths and untruths. Laws have been passed against him in a few states and reputable insurance companies attempt to eliminate him—but the first line of defense must be the policyholder.

We almost always lose when we exchange one policy for another. Differences in age, in cash benefits, in borrowing privileges, make it extremely unwise ever to drop a policy in a sound company. The answer to a twister should be a decisive "No!" Another good plan is to suggest that his plan be analyzed by an agent representing the company of the insured. This strategy often results in his fading from the scene.

The wisest thing in the way of saving and hoarding a citizen can do is to save his money and hoard his depression jokes.

Even with three-cent postage some people are still going to write letters that are not worth mailing.

A GREAT SAFETY CONTEST

The National Traffic Safety Contest, which began the first of the year to run twelve months, is the biggest safety movement ever attempted.

More than 400 municipalities, in 43 states, are competing for the title of "America's Safest City," in seven population groups. Two-thirds of all cities with populations between 100,000 and 500,000 are entered, as are 24 of the 26 cities with more than 500,000 population. At least half of the cities have never before conducted organized safety campaigns. Past campaigns, of local origin, have been half-hearted and produced few permanent benefits.

The present campaign got off to a bad start in January, which showed an increase in automobile fatalities over the same period in 1931. A few cities—namely Seattle, Dallas, Baltimore, Boston, Cincinnati and Minneapolis—had encouraging decreases, but in others—notably Chicago, San Francisco and Newark—the death toll soared. It is now up for the black marks registered in January.

The individual citizen must make the campaign a success by his own efforts. He must school himself in safe and competent driving at all times and follow the Golden Rule of Highway usage. If that is done, 1932 will see the automobile accident problem improved.

"Household Hints" never have anything about fathers putting up the screens or cleaning up the back yard. They never need to because most every man has a household hinter of his own.

The star athlete who never exercises the muscles of his brain will have to learn that life is a game that takes something more than physical development.

There never was a better time than this for people to learn that it is much easier to live within an income than without one.

Every now and then you see somebody driving a car so carefully that you are almost sure it has been paid for.

Some motorists around here seem to thing warning signals at railroad crossings are intended for the locomotive engineer.

If you feel that the whole world's against you, change your course, because there must be a reason.

For a year or so it has looked as though some people were trying to get to the poor house in high.

Governor Raises Own Clothes

Aren't they the little lambs! At least Governor William Tudor Gardiner of Maine, shown holding them, thinks so, because they keep him in clothing. The governor raises sheep on his farm at Phipps Point, Me., and their wool is carded, spun and woven by Mrs. Alice Gardiner Davis, his sister. The material is then made into clothing for the governor and his family.

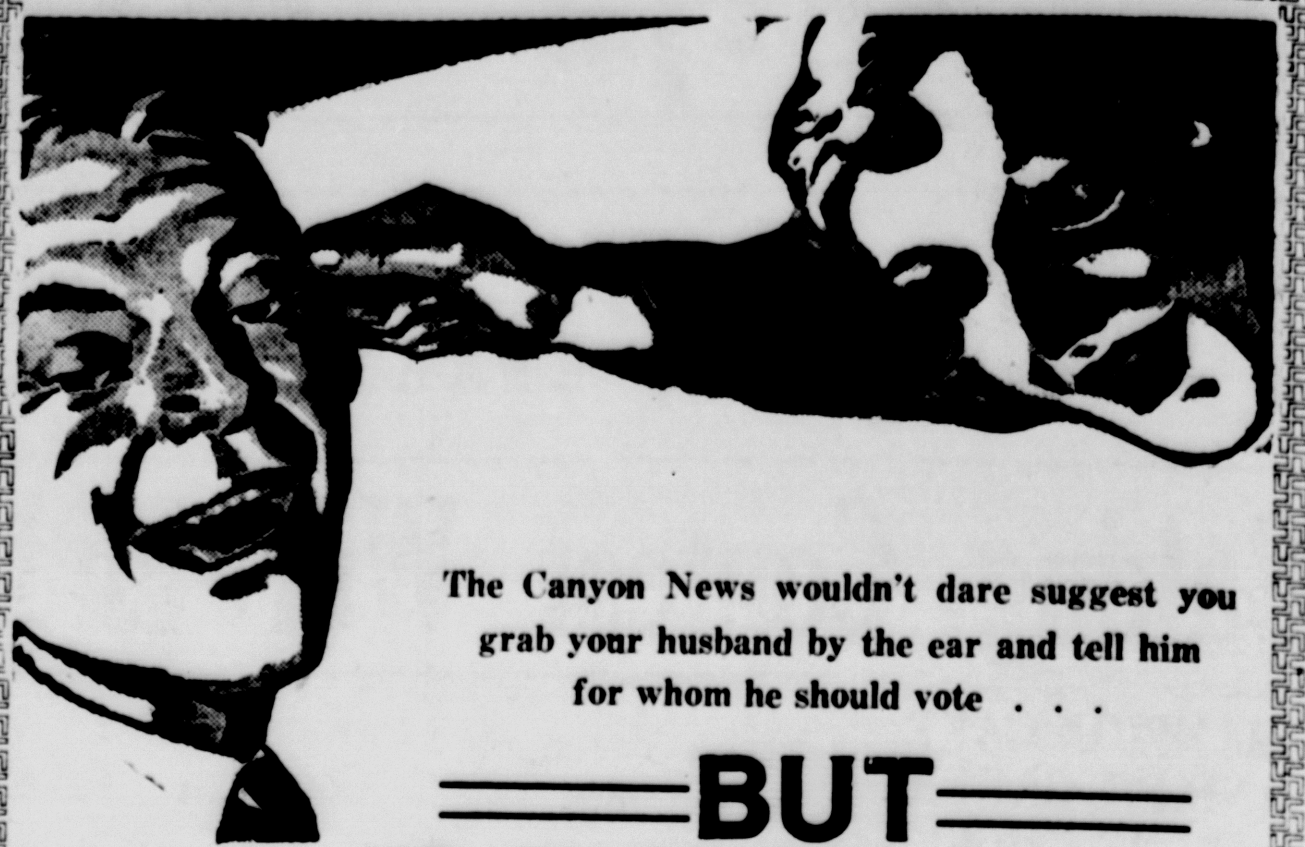

Astronomers agree that the other planets cannot support life. And it is beginning to look as though this one can't support it in the manner to which it has been accustomed.

The old-fashioned citizen who departed this life when he blew out the gas left a grandson who now lights a match to look in the gas tank.

Another reason why we are not getting along any better is that too many men around here would rather have a tooth pulled than pay their taxes.

He had worked forty-two years for a corporation and decided to retire. In appreciation of his long and faithful service the company arranged to give him a sum of money, and asked the German foreman to present it, with a little speech. Accordingly the foreman said to him: "You haff vorked for dis gompany more ash forty years, and you vos going to kvit?" "Yes." "Vell, de gompany vos so glad dey asked me to hand you dis hundred dollars."

Help Keep Canyon Clean!

The Canyon News wouldn't dare suggest you grab your husband by the ear and tell him for whom he should vote . . .

BUT

consider these candidates for office and here's why:

In bringing to Canyon Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig, nationally known Culinary Expert, for The News Free Cooking School, the newspaper underwrote all expenses—a considerable sum—in the belief that the Cooking School would be worth many times its cost. Undoubtedly it is, but some one has to foot the bills.

These Candidates for elective office believe the Cooking School is a wonderful help to the people of Canyon and Randall County. They are defraying a part of the expenses of the School and urge their friends and the public in general to attend every session. They are glad of the opportunity to help make possible this community event.

GOVERNMENT—A SPENDTHRIFT

During the past ten years, business managers have constantly stressed the fact that expenditures of federal, state and local governments, were increasing faster than national growth, national wealth and national prosperity. Thoughtful citizens who dared to protest against continuously increasing governmental extravagance, were classed as alarmists or as obstructors of good government.

In the meantime, expenditures of public tax funds increased by leaps and bounds. Governmental bureaus and activities expended in every direction. Bonds were issued freely for all manner of public improvements. As a result, we now face a staggering public debt and a back-breaking tax burden.

The cost of government now consumes about 14 billion dollars annually, or more than one-fifth of the national income. Every citizen, whether he knows it or not, now labors one day each week for the support of government.

It is no longer necessary to point out that the cost of government is beyond the ability of the people to pay. A business depression has brought that fact home with brutal force. The question is: What do we intend to do about it?

The time has come when every citizen must act for the protection of his home and his livelihood. Home owners and wage earners must demand that government cease looking for new places to levy more taxes. They must insist that government voluntarily practice the same thrift and economy which has been forced upon its people.

Merle Thorpe, editor Nation's Business, recently directed attention to the enormous increase in the cost of maintaining various activities of the federal government. Some of Mr. Thorpe's comparisons are shown in the attached statement and the figures speak for themselves. Similar conditions probably exist in many state and local governments.

If the people really desire economy in government with permanently reduced taxes, they can have it. But, only if they evidence a determined interest; and if they demand the real facts from their Senators, Congressmen and their representatives in state and local governments.

Taxpayers are entitled to know how their money is being spent. What are all these departments of government? How many bureaus are there in each department? What service does each bureau of commission render and is that service actually necessary? How many employees does each bureau carry on the pay roll and how much does it cost?

When citizens take the time to secure full and complete answers to these questions, there will be a tax-paying revolt which even politicians will be compelled to heed.

What Other People Think

We spend 10,000,000 pounds a year on education and 600,000,000 pounds on drink and gambling. Wasteful expenditure in this (England) and other countries is one of the causes of our troubles today. The Rt. Rev. John Kempthorne, Bishop of Lichfield, England.

The district around Nice, France, has become an entrenched camp. New roads and railroads have been constructed linking the valleys with ports. This year alone France is spending $20,000,000 on the Italian frontier.—Senator Domenico Nuvoloni of Italy.

The government and the people of England wish well toward the Irish Free State. We wish to see its people happy and prosperous. We believe the prosperity of the Free State is bound up with the prosperity of Great Britain and that it is in the interests of both countries that they should remain linked together within the British Commonwealth.—J. H. Thomas, British Dominions Secretary.

So long as people are allowed to think what they like they are bound to think something so hard that they will be eager to kill anyone who thinks something else.—G. K. Chesterton, essayist.

It would be a better idea to wipe out crime than to wipe out crime pictures.—Ernst Lubitsch, movie director.

The Rev. Mr. Davidson kissed his landlady. He kissed his landlady's daughter. He kissed women in distress. He kissed those who did things for him. He kissed all sort of people. I admit that he is a very unusual man, but he is not immoral. His kisses were always on the cheek or forehead.—R. F. Levy, attorney for Rev. Harold Francis Davidson, English rector being tried for "immorality."

We should look to the future and profit by mistakes of the past. History shows that we have been thru trying times before.—Dudley S. Humphrey, 80-year-old popcorn king, Cleveland.

The prosperity of our nation depends upon the prosperity of that approximate half of our population which has its first hope of prosperity in the welfare of agriculture.—Congressman Marvin Jones of Texas.

HIGH COST OF GENIALITY.

"Why do you jump every time the telephone rings?" "I'm afraid of bad news," said Senator Sorghum.

"But the message may be cheery and complimentary." "I can't think of it. As my political affairs have been going, I've decided that if I want a kind word, I'll have to go to a fortune-teller and pay for it."—Washington Evening Star.

In Japan it seems that after you run for premier, you run for dear life.

SHALL THE RAILROADS OPERATE BUSES?

Complete Federal regulation of interstate passenger bus operations, such as now is imposed on the railroads, and Federal licensing of motor trucks engaged in interstate commerce, are urged by the Interstate Commerce Commission, in a report to Congress which also recommends that the railroads and water lines be encouraged to operate buses and trucks wherever their use in highway transportation would result in more efficient service.

This would be one method of solving some of the tax problems of the railroads. For example, according to Stratton Shartel, Attorney General for the State of Missouri, 35 states tax railroads more per mile than Missouri, but in 1931, railroad tax valuations in that state reached the enormous figure of $282,000,000.

If publicly built highways could be largely substituted for railroad taxable real estate, one of the greatest handicaps of the railroads in competition with other forms of transportation, would be removed unless bus and truck taxes were greatly increased. Without such increase the change would be tough on the public treasuries.

THE POSTAL DEFICIT.

The question seriously is raised whether an increase of postal rates will reduce the deficit of the Post-office Department. The explanation is a recognition of the fact that many people will be deterred from using the mails by the additional costs. In that event, the policy proves more than foolish; it is vicious. Insofar as business promotion by the use of the mails is discouraged, the return of prosperity is hindered, and making difficult friendly personal communication lowers general morale at a time when especially it demands conserving.

In such circumstances the folks back home should find a way to make known to their Congressmen their indignation over the abuse of the franking system. The post-office department last year fell short of paying its way by approximately $150,000,000. How large a part of that was the result of members of Congress mailing postage-free about 33,000,000 pieces of mail matter? What part of those 33,000,000 pieces was unsought by their recipients, unappreciated, unread and totally wasted?

Of late a Michigan congressman sent out his photograph to newspapers in his district. The envelope, marked with his signature and the stern warning "penalty for private use to avoid payment of postage, $300," bore no postage stamp. It would be a startling revelation to the folks who are asked to bear the burden of higher postal rates, to get the figures as to the tons of absolutely useless bunk franked through the mails by members of Congress during this campaign year.

JUST A SUGGESTION.

I am no shrewd economist; it's not for me to say

To statesmen how they ought to meet the problems of the day. I haven't any fancy scheme for curing public ills, I'm just an ordinary chap who likes to pay his bills; But this is how it seems to me, the way to run a town. Before you put the taxes up, is cut expenses down.

The citizens who pay the bills have had their income cut; The owner of the little house has suffered losses, but The politicians, clerks are all enjoying good-times pay. In two long years of sacrifice they haven't lost a day. And so if I were running things I'd risk my little crown By thinning out the public crew to cut expenses down.

I wouldn't think up further schemes to hit good citizens, I'd do what farmers always do with old non-laying hens: I'd chop their heads off here and there; I'd sort the sheep from goats. And give more thought to ways and means and less to getting votes.

I'd cut the bills of government, not caring who may frown. And ere I shot the taxes up, I'd shoot expenses down.

Miss Ola Visage, Wm. R. Bishop Are Married

Miss Ola Visage and Mr. William Russell Bishop, both of Canyon, were quietly married Friday, June 3, at Clovis, New Mexico, with the Rev. Mr. Nix, pastor of the Baptist church of that city, reading the vows. Only members of the immediate families witnessed the ceremony.

The bride wore a becoming frock of orchid crepe with accessories to match. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Visage of this city and has lived here for a number of years, graduating this spring from the Canyon high school. She was a member of the Spanish club and took a very active part in school activities.

Mr. Bishop is the son of Mrs. W. P. Bishop of Canyon. He also, has lived here for some time, is a graduate of the West Texas State Teachers training school and has completed his sophomore year at the College. He is assistant scout master of the troops at the college. At present Mr. Bishop is manager of the Toggery Tailor shop.

The couple plan to make their home in Canyon.

CITY FEDERATION HOLD LAST MEETING

The City Federation of Women's clubs held the last meeting of the club year Wednesday afternoon at the club room in the court house.

Mrs. J. Madison Daugherty, president, had charge of the meeting. Mrs. C. M. Dowlen, chairman of the Community Chest committee, gave a report of the year's work of that body. Mrs. Dowlen stated that more than 1,500 garments had been distributed through the Community chest to the needy during the past winter. She also made an appeal for more clothing to be donated to the chest for distribution during next winter.

Mrs. Daugherty urged that the women attend the daily sessions of the Canyon News' First Annual Cooking School and to enter cakes and pies in the baking contest, which is being sponsored by the Federation. The money received from the sale of these entries in the contest will go into the Federation funds for the work of the organization.

The next meeting of the Federation will be the second Wednesday in September.

CANYON REBEKAHS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES

Canyon Rebekah Lodge No. 350 met Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. A brief memorial service was held with flowers placed on the altar and at the four stations in memory of departed Rebekahs. Mrs. Bertie Strain, noble grand, presided in the service, assisted by Mrs. Mary B. Weeks, warden; Mrs. Mildred Sullivan, conductor, and Mrs. Margaret Cole, chaplain.

Election of officers was held following the committee reports. Mrs. Myrtle Stratton was elected noble grand and Mrs. Margaret Cole was chosen vice grand. The regular voting rules were dispensed with and Mrs. Stratton and Mrs. Cole were elected to their positions by acclamation. They will serve for terms of six months.

At the conclusion of the meeting the lodge members were served a surprise supper by Mrs. Maudie Johnson and Mrs. Weeks. The table in the dining room was laid with covers of white linen and centered at intervals with bowls of pink roses and greenery carrying out the lodge colors of pink and green. Plates were laid for fifteen members. A delicious supper course of chicken and cheese sandwiches, home-made ice cream and cake was served.

Those present were: Mrs. Maudie Waggy, Mrs. Dollie Taylor, Mrs. Mildred Sullivan, Mrs. Margaret Cole, Mrs. Nannie Myers, Mrs. Lucy Brown, Mrs. Winnie Louder, Mrs. Bertie Strain, Mrs. Myrtle Stratton, Mrs. Pinkie McBride, Mrs. Minnie Hendrix, Mrs. Marie Hair, Mrs. Maudie Johnson, Mrs. Mary B. Weeks, and Miss Mae Warren.

MRS. W. L. JOHNSON IS HOSTESS TO CLUB

The Worthwhile club met Thursday afternoon, June 2, in the home of Mrs. W. L. Johnson.

The first part of the afternoon was profitably spent in the exchange of favorite recipes after which Mrs. Johnson entertained the ladies with many of her interesting experiences while teaching in the U. S. government schools in the Philippine Islands.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and iced tea were served to the following: Mrs. Lois Caldwell, Mrs. Julia Samuelson, Mrs. A. M. Smith, Mrs. Florence Smith Cox of Las Cruces, N. M., and Mrs. W. T. Davis.

BENEFIT BRIDGE TO BE GIVEN FOR MUSEUM FUND

A Benefit Bridge is to be given for the aid of the Historical Society Museum Fund at the American Legion Hall Thursday afternoon and again Thursday evening. The bridge is to be given by the Junior Woman's Study club.

The afternoon session will begin at 3 o'clock and the evening hour at 8:30. Admission is 25 cents.

The public is cordially invited to participate in these bridge sessions as all money received will be donated to the museum fund which must be raised in its entirety by July 1st if Canyon is to get the museum building.

Mrs. L. R. Ihrig Stresses Values Of Foodstuffs

"Certain foodstuffs should be included in the daily diet of every person," says Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig, conductor of the Canyon News' First Annual Cooking School. Mrs. Ihrig daily discusses the biochemistry of these foods, the elements they contain and the use to which they are put in the human body.

Balancing menus becomes a pleasant and easy task after the lecture Mrs. Ihrig gave today on "What Shall We have for Dinner." Balance in meals is necessary to insure proper function of digestive organs as well as to promote growth and good health.

Tomorrow will be CAKE AND PIE BAKING CONTEST DAY. In her concluding discussion Mrs. Ihrig will recount the evils of improper dieting and the organic disturbances which may result from careless efforts to reduce poundage.

Mrs. Ihrig daily prepares many tasty dishes, bringing to Canyon cooks new ideas of cooking and new recipes. Stressing economy as the central topic of the school, Mrs. Ihrig uses inexpensive foods with proper consideration for quality. Expensive dishes are not included in the program arranged by the capable director.

No Canyon housewife can neglect the opportunity to improve her culinary ability offered daily in the Canyon News' Cooking School.

Fairview Breezes

The good rain that fell Friday night was welcomed by all. It certainly will help the wheat. Some of the farmers are going to have to replant their row crop.

The forty-two party at H. E. Evans' Saturday night was greatly enjoyed. Kathryn Patterson and Glenn Mohler won the prizes for high score. Mrs. H. H. Sutton and Joe Patterson for low score. Erma Mae Sutton is visiting her sister, Mrs. Albert Legate of Groom.

Miss Annie Washburn spent last Thursday night with Miss Ruby Zachry. The singing at J. W. Wesley's Sunday night was enjoyed by all present.

Lee Patterson spent a few days of this week in the J. W. Wesley home.

Mrs. James Roberts and children of Elida, N. M., spent the week end with relatives here. Austin and Orville Roberts will spend the summer here with relatives.

Mrs. Cordelia Barnett moved to Amarillo the first of this week.

Much of School's Success Due To Fine Equipment

"I have had unusually good luck while conducting the Canyon school," said Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig, director of the Canyon News' First Annual Cooking School today.

"Everyone, and cooking school instructors are no exception, has a failure now and then. All of the dishes I have prepared here have been marvelous successes. I attribute the absence of failures to the L. & H. Gas range and to the use of gas for cooking. No other range, and no other fuel is as easy to regulate.

"I cannot give all the credit to the range. I have had the best ingredients money can buy for my use here, but not the most expensive. Great West flour, and K C Baking Powder are as sure guarantees of success as any cook may have. I am not forgetting the fine canned and fresh fruits and vegetables provided by Bellah's New Food Store, nor the choice meats obtained at the Buffalo market. And the General Electric refrigerator silently keeping them fresh during the four days of the school.

"Credit for the success of the frozen dishes and jells must be given to the General Electric. All I did was to mix a few things together and let the General Electric do the work.

The splendid co-operation exhibited by the Canyon merchants aided greatly in the success of the school.

CANYON CITY CLUB NEWS

It is to be remembered that the golf team is to go to Clovis next Sunday. At the request of the Club, Clovis consented to postpone the game scheduled for last Sunday until the 12th.

Jimmie Gamewell won the driving contest held during the tournament at Dalhart last Sunday, averaging 215 yards for three drives. Jimmie won at Dalhart last year, defeating Burne Reynolds for the championship. Burne won this year.

Another big rain did more damage at the Club and Frank Shotwell says there is so much work to do he does not know just where to start.

T. V. Reeves set a new low score record for the front nine a few days ago, shooting a 31.

When the golf team goes to Clovis they will go against the record that Plainview defeated Canyon, Tullia bowled over Plainview and Tullia in turn was defeated by Clovis; looks like the boys will have to do their best to upset the dope and win.

Tullia nosed out Plainview in their last Sunday's match, 7½ points to 6½.

Our rain finally arrived and was accompanied by hail. Several farmers suffered considerable damage and one crop was completely destroyed by the hail. However, we are grateful for the abundance of rain, and if we do not have a come-back of the hail, most people will make better wheat than if it hadn't rained.

Joe Gamble Says That Deer Placed Here Are Fine

The deer placed in the Palo Duro recently by the State Game, Fish and Oyster Commission are doing fine, states Joe B. Gamble. The deer were placed on his ranch in the canyon.

Three of the deer were found dead a few days after they were placed in the canyon, for causes unknown.

Mr. Gamble states that the deer are getting wild. When they were first placed in the canyon, they stayed nearly all of the time around the ranch house, and were very tame.

Have either of us backbone to turn down a million dollars?
A Wisconsin scientist by the name of Dr. Harry Steenbock did it, so Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan informs us.

Dr. Steenbock discovers a way of treating ordinary foods with ultraviolet rays in such a way that they cured children suffering from rickets.

It was a wonderful discovery, so marvelous was it one food manufacturer offered him a royalty guarantee of $900,000 for only part of the rights. Other rights would have brought him over a million in royalties?

What did Dr. Steenbock do?
He turned all offers down and placed his discovery in the hands of the Wisconsin Research Foundation with the simple provision that the money is to be used in further research. He will not receive one penny for his discovery.

Now as to the man—what has he to say. This:
"I'm happy. I've done the best for science. I could have turned business man and taken this money in a perfectly legal manner—but I would have been breaking faith with myself and the things I believe in. You see, it's bigger than I am—this thing of being a scientist."

There is a lot of vacant space between what most of us know and what we think we know.

A lot of people who are headed for the poorhouse at least are going in style.

Senate Rejects Beer
Roosevelt Far Ahead
New House Bloc
Railroad Laborer's Warning
Workmen Divided
Conflict About Relief
Glover's Frank Talk
Join To Fight U. S.

After more than ten years of debate the question of beer was voted upon in the Senate, when the "dry" bill to legislate a 2.75 beverage was defeated 551, to 24. The beer was to be taxed three cents a pint to retire a proposed $1,500,000,000 bond issue designated to create jobs through federal construction projects.

The straight out declaration of Owen D. Young that he would not accept the Democratic nomination for President, even if made, was particularly pleasing to Roosevelt supporters, who said it was another blow to the "Stop Roosevelt" campaign. Meanwhile the New York governor ran up his list of delegates last week by winning five states with a total of 64 delegates. He seems certain of going into the convention with such strength that a successful effort to beat him will only follow a fight that will leave the party badly divided.

The Senate, working hard and feverishly to wind up its business on June 11th, responded to the dominate coalition backing the billion dollar tax bill. However, the congressional situation is complicated by a newly formed House coalition, reported to have sufficient support to prevent adjournment until a non-partisan and adequate relief plan is evolved into law.

The revelation of the existence of the House bloc came in a statement, issued by Reps. Mead, Kelly and LaGuardia, which said that a majority from both sides, would resist adjournment until legislation was passed to relieve agriculture, provide employment and stimulate business. The maintenance of bank credits, already accomplished, was termed "not sufficient" in the war upon depression which cannot be ended without the assurance of an "upward trend in employment, prices and sales."

A more striking statement upon present day troubles came to the President from the presidents of seven leading railway unions, who frankly declared that "unless something is done" to provide employment and relieve distress they would not be responsible for the orderly operation of the railroads or for the disorder "which is sure to arise if conditions continue." The labor leaders warned that the dole might become a demand because "everything else suggested has either failed or been denied."

Not only did the labor leaders give warning but also their recommendation, based upon surveys made by the organizations represented, that the export trade of this country be stimulated by a 25-year moratorium on war debts and a partial cancellation each year, the amount to be based upon the goods bought by each debtor nation from the United States. This is similar to the plan recently advocated by Alfred E. Smith. A commission of five would confer with foreign governments and apply the plan to cooperating nations.

In submitting the proposal the labor leaders, in an appeal to the President, related the plight of the nations, pointing out that in the past few years employment has declined over 30 per cent, pay rolls over 50 per cent, and the prices of farm products over 55 per cent—and it is getting worse. Exports of American goods have dropped $3,000,000,000 since 1927, said the statement, and foreign nations, as a result of having to pay war debts in gold, find it practically impossible to buy the "products of our industrial and farm laborers" which the railroad workers "wish to haul to the seacoast." The appeal declared that the attempt to pay these debts should not continue to throttle the sale of American products abroad.

Several days afterward the representatives of six other railway brotherhoods told the president that they did not join in the petition or endorse the suggested moratorium, which they considered unsound. Moreover, they deemed the plan "a part of a factional dispute in one of the major political parties and asserted that the executives who visited the President represented only a minority of railway labor.

Just before receiving the plea of the railroad men, President Hoover issued a statement opposing the public works bond issue, emphasizing self-liquidating construction projects and relief loans to states and vigorously upheld the use of emergency measures to "fight the depression, the misery and suffering." Having "no taste for any such emergency powers," and believing that with a return of confidence "there will be no need to exercise" them, the President nevertheless hinted that they might be resorted to, if necessary.

In opposing the proposal to issue bonds to finance a self-liquidating construction project, the President sought an agreement upon a plan to extend the power of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation so that it can (1) loan $300,000,000 to the states for direct relief, (2) use $40,000,000 to aid agricultural exports, and (3) lend $1,160,000,000 to private business for reproduction enterprises. The Democratic plan as outlined unofficially, includes items (1) and (2), with (3) an "undetermined sum" and added (4) $1,100,000,000, for the public works program. Difference in financing plans involved the choice of a bond issue, sponsored by the Democrats, and the use of R. C. F. debentures advocated by the Republicans.

The fact that both parties admit the imperative need of action is the only encouraging factor. Since neither party controls Congress the Republicans cannot pass the President's program, and while the Democrats and Insurgents might possibly enact the other program a prompt veto cannot be over-riden. In other words if anything is done there must be a compromise between the divided camps. The President's opposition to a bond issue for public works is matched by the reluctance of many Democrats to agree that the government should loan a billion dollars to private businesses.

However, this outline of the situation is complicated by various blocs, some of which are not concerned with the methods adopted to raise the funds if work is provided for unemployed. Moreover, difficulties arise in making loans to states, because some of them are not in a position to borrow. Others would vote as much as $5,000,000,000 for public works, regardless of whether the construction involves self-liquidating projects, such as tunnels, bridges, etc., or not.

In spite of the difficulties of reaching agreement, leaders still hope for adjournment early this month. They know that Congress has a way of suddenly untangling itself from "impossible" legislative snarls and that politicians want nothing less than a prolonged summer session. Nevertheless, informed senators that there will be no adjournment until tax, economy and appropriation bills are enacted.

Something novel was the address of W. Irving Glover, Assistant Postmaster General, who according to press reports, told Missouri postmasters to "get out on the firing line" for President Hoover, and warned that he would be "glad to take the resignations" of any postmasters who don't want to do it. This bold demand caused criticism in Washington where Senator Norris said the President should repudiate "these sentiments" and retire Mr. Glover who denied saying all the remarks attributed to him but declared he had a perfect right to tell them to work for President Hoover.

A House committee requests the President to call an international monetary conference where the silver conference would be discussed. Abandonment of the gold standard is not advised, although plans to restore silver as a medium of exchange are held essential to world economic rehabilitation. However there are many who insist that silver must be restored as a "basic money" before the world will be able to come out of the trade slump.

Reports from Lima, Peru, are that Mexico, Peru, Chile and other republics have been exchanging views for some time in preparation for what Foreign Minister Fruendt of Peru, calls a "frank open struggle with the United States Congress." He says the proposed duty on copper would mean "absolute ruin to Peru and Chile" and that, it is necessary to "fight to the last ditch." Several years ago a proposed customs union against this country was proposed by Argentina, but failed because Chile and Peru remained aloof. Peru has a bill pending to levy a 300 per cent duty on all imports from the United States.

ENCYCLOPEDIA HAS 33 MILLION WORDS

An exhibition of book-binding is now being held at the Lakeside Press Galleries. Among the sets of books included, is the Encyclopedia Britannica which is printed in Chicago by the Lakeside Press. Some facts about this encyclopedia that are not generally known are that the text, inclusive of the index contains 33,000,000 words, the type weighed 250 tons, the value of the metal used in making the type was $50,000, over 20,000 pages had been set before a single page was plated, it required more than 102 car loads of paper to print the 23,000,000 press impressions, and the skins of more than 20,000 goats were needed in the leather binding.

GETTING THE LOW-DOWN.

Through the good offices of an influential American residing in Paris, an ambitious young girl from New York obtained an audience with Sacha Guitry, the famous actor, who graciously consented to hear her recite.

After listening to a classical or two, the great actor went up to the young aspirant for histrionic honors and placed his hand on her head, as in benediction.

Shopping HINTS for BRIDES

Depression may stop business and finance, but weddings go on forever. June weddings for 1932 may have less pomp and ceremony, but June weddings there will be. And, of course you, the friend, manifest your good wishes for the happy couple with gifts for their new home. We offer several suggestions which homemakers say are highly acceptable.

BRIDAL PARTY GOODS

Tallies, place cards and favors that are fitting for the occasion for the bride. Whether it is a shower, an announcement affair, or an honoree party

BOOK-ENDS

Colorful light book-ends that are mainly ornamental and other heavier ones for sets of books. Priced from $1.75 up.

BOOKS FOR THE BRIDE

Wedding books for a record of the wedding ceremony, gifts, parties, and other affairs to be remembered.

RECIPE BOOKS AND CABINETS

The Boston School Cook Book, the Delineator, the Modern Priscilla and blank books for the bride's own recipes.

WALL DECORATIONS

Especially appropriate for the bride are these little silhouettes and plaques, because they are small and easy to place in any home. See these interesting wall pieces.

BRIC-A-BRAC

Odd pieces with a real use—chromium plated serving dishes, black etched glass bowls, cookie jars, refrigerator sets, etc.

VASES

Rainbow pottery and Roseville vases in soft pastel colors that blend easily with various settings. This pottery is well made with a finish that will not crackle.

Wilbur C. Hawk Gives Program for W. T. C. C.

In assuming the presidency of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, I am sincerely appreciative of the high honor which West Texas has conferred upon me. The confidence which has been shown in me will be a constant inspiration and challenge to give of the best I have in filling the position to which I have been elevated.

No one could have attended the sessions of the Sweetwater convention without coming away deeply impressed with the great spirit of West Texans to press on with an unexcelled determination in times of economic stress and difficulties such as we now have.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce met the challenge of the times during the year closing with the convention in an admirable, loyal and worthy fashion. At no time in its history has the organization given a better account of itself than at the Sweetwater meeting. Under the magnificent leadership of President Houston Harte many worthwhile and far-reaching projects were inaugurated and carried through to successful consummation. Others were begun and advanced which it will be my purpose to carry forward in my administration.

The Sweetwater convention adopted many constructive and vital resolutions and I shall regard these as the work program and platform of my administration. One of our first tasks will be to formulate plans for getting positive results upon the resolutions. These plans will be announced soon in the form of a definite work program with an organization plan for the performing of the work.

I have three definite objectives in mind for my administration which I think are of paramount importance.

Reduction of Public Expenditures and Taxation

First, I want to carry forward the excellent program already under way for the reduction of public expenditures and taxation. The leadership of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Texas upon this project is generally recognized and firmly established. It shall be my foremost purpose to advance this program and carry it out to the fullest. There is no problem of more vital concern than that of the increasing cost of all government. In fact, I want every county in West Texas to have a Taxpayers Committee.

I am firmly convinced that we must lower taxes before we can expect a full measure of prosperity. To have lower taxes we must curtail public expenditures. To curtail public expenditures, we must demand less services of our government, and perhaps cut off some which we have come to regard as highly essential. This will only be done when demanded by the taxpayers themselves. I believe we have in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and our splendid local chambers with their tax committees the kind of organization that can most easily and effectively accomplish the ends desired. Many of the resolutions adopted at Sweetwater have to do with the problem, and I sincerely hope that all West Texans will familiarize themselves with them so that we may have their intelligent co-operation.

PRESIDENT W. T. C. C.

WILBUR C. HAWK

We are pledged to the promotion of the following activities and policies: to memorialize public officials to reduce expenditures, to organize budget making proceedings in all forms of local government to require proper auditing of county claims, to compel tax collections, to provide less costly county administration, to provide less costly state administration, to provide less costly judiciary administration and to lesson public school affiliation requirements.

Beautification Plan

The second objective to which I expect to dedicate my administration is the furtherance of the West Texas beautification plan started under President Harte's leadership. One of the common complaints from visitors to West Texas is its barrenness. This condition can be eliminated to a great extent thru co-operative effort such as the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is fostering through the eighty odd local beautification committees in as many towns. We have the plan in operation. We expect during this year to stage a big inter-city beautification contest whereby communities will vie with one another in planting trees, shrubbery, and flowers. Soon we shall announce the contest plan which will be conducted until the Big Spring Convention in 1933.

Buy at Home Shows

The third objective I have in mind is that of having all of our one hundred and seventeen affiliated towns conduct and stage "Buy-at-home Shows," with the particular purpose of getting the women of each city interested in the promotion of this activity in each town. These shows may be held at one time all over West Texas. Towns will be surprised themselves to find just how many products are manufactured and produced in their own confines. They will be further surprised to find the great variety of products carried on the shelves of the local merchants. I believe this idea can be made a great factor in promoting Texas industrially. If West Texas is to expand industrially it must come from small beginnings we already have. Most of our large industries were once small. By encouraging the small ones we now have through these shows, we shall be promoting larger ones for the years ahead.

While I expect to major on the above three projects, it shall also be my purpose through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to carry the other projects outlined at the Sweetwater convention, and to continue the organization's effort to ever fostering and strengthening that spirit of loyalty, progressiveness, and determination so thoroughly characterized by our West Texas citizenship.

The accomplishment of the objectives I have in mind for this organization is only possible with the co-operation of our one hundred and seventeen affiliated towns through their accredited directors. With all these pulling together under the banner of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, we can do what we make up our minds to do.

If I were to select a slogan for my administration, it would be "Press On," because only by pressing on toward the objectives we have set up can we expect to be successful in our aims and ambitions for West Texas.

Pipe the Mug

Now that he has a pipe, old Stony Face is happy. Some sympathetic stranger, seeing this odd face-like geological formation on a road near Napa, Calif., probably thought it looked lonesome and decided to improve on Mother Nature by placing this huge pipe, four feet in length, between its lips.

THE GENTLEMAN.

Men thought him over gentle, but cricks found him strong.
He'd smile away life's various ills but fight against a wrong.
The frets which anger many he minded not at all.
But honor found him ready to heed her battle call.

So fortified with patience his nature seemed to be.
He never made small blunders a cause for enmity.

The erring and the careless with tenderness he'd chide.
But arrogant injustice he fought until he died.

His smile was like a woman's, all radiant and sweet.
He had a word of friendship for all he chanced to meet.
The quarrels men rush into he shunned as things of hate
And never lost his temper unless the cause was great.

Men thought him over-gentle, they oft misjudged his smile.
So quick was his perception of what was not worth while;
So true his sense of values, he spurned the trifling thrust
And only struck in anger at what he deemed unjust.

day his platform for re-election as Attorney General of Texas. His record while in this office for the past eighteen months is given as an index as to his ability as an official, and the course of his future activities.

During his tenure of office he has fought, in the interest of the state, more than 500 suits filed against the enforcement of the truck and bus law, defending them successfully through all of the courts to the Supreme Court of the United States.

He has handled more than 150 oil suits in oil and gas conservation measures. He is now engaged in one of the largest suits ever filed in Texas against the 17 major companies in the state.

Big Scene of Palo Duro In C. C. Magazne

First appearing on the cover page of the Texas Outlook of last September, it was used by the Southwestern Stockman-Farmer in November and then in January appeared in the Hoofs and Horns, of Tucson, Arizona, and then in the June issue of West Texas Today. The July issue of Holland's Magazine of Dallas will carry a number of the Palo Duro Canyon scenes it has been announced.

Additional publicity has been obtained for the canyon in the Texas Federation News, official publication of the Texas Federated Women's Clubs. An article and cuts showing different scenes in the canyon will appear in an early issue of the Federation News it has been announced by the local Chamber of Commerce.
